

Using ChampSearch

ChampSearch is a brand new way to search and use library resources. The new search box allows you to search for what you need in one place, in addition to searching more specifically.

Using the Discovery tab

ChampSearch

The screenshot shows the ChampSearch interface with the 'Discovery' tab selected. The search bar contains the text 'Search books, articles, and more'. Below the search bar are two filter buttons: 'Full Text' and 'Peer Reviewed'. An 'Advanced Search' link is visible at the bottom right of the search area.

The Discovery tab of the new search box allows you to search the library's catalog, as well as, most of the library's databases. (GDC Vault is not incorporated into discovery. To find films available in Kanopy please go to <https://champlain.kanopy.com/>)

Use the "Full Text" limiter to only receive results that allow you to view the complete text of an article or book. Use the "Peer Reviewed" limiter to narrow your results to scholarly articles.

The advanced search option allows you to enter multiple keywords on separate search lines and to use different limiters to adjust your search.

Additionally, this tab can be used to search for journals or newspapers that you looking to access. When searching for a journal using the Discovery tab, you will be given the option to search within that journal form the results page.

Using the Catalog tab

ChampSearch

The screenshot shows the ChampSearch interface with the 'Catalog' tab selected. The navigation bar includes 'Discovery', 'Catalog', 'Journals', 'Databases', and 'Guides'. The search bar contains the text 'Search books and eBooks' and a search icon. Below the search bar is a link for 'Advanced Search' with an external link icon.

Searches using the catalog tab will return items available in the library catalog. This includes physical books, eBooks, DVDs, and some streaming video. On the search results page you can limit by library location. For example, if you are looking for books in the children's collection, you can use the Library Location limiter to select books in the Children's Collection.

Using the Journals Tab

ChampSearch

The screenshot shows the ChampSearch interface with the 'Journals' tab selected. The navigation bar includes 'Discovery', 'Catalog', 'Journals', 'Databases', and 'Guides'. The search bar contains the text 'Search Journals' and a search icon. Below the search bar is a section titled 'Limit your search' with a gear icon. This section contains two toggle switches: 'Full Text' and 'Peer Reviewed', both of which are currently turned off. Below this section is a link for 'Advanced Search' with an external link icon.

The journals tab will your keyword(s) to search for relevant journal titles. You can also use this tab to search for specific journal titles that you are looking to access.

The “Full Text” limiter will limit your results to journals you have full text access to through the library. The “Peer Reviewed” limiter will only return academic/scholarly journals.

Using the Databases tab

The Databases and Guides link will take you a different library platform.

The Databases tab will take you to a searchable list of the library’s databases where you can look for specific databases relevant to your search topic.

A-Z Databases

Find the best library databases for your research.

The image shows the A-Z Databases search results page. At the top, there are three dropdown menus: 'All Subjects', 'All Database Types', and 'All Vendors / Providers'. To the right of these is a search bar with the text 'Search for Databases' and a 'Go' button. Below the search bar, there is a navigation bar with letters A through Z and a '#' symbol. The main content area shows '144 Databases found' under the letter 'A'. The first result is 'ABI/INFORM Global (ProQuest)' with an external link icon. On the right side, there is a section titled 'Popular Databases' with the subtitle 'The most frequently-used databases'. The first result in this section is 'Academic Search Complete (EBSCO)' with a 'Popular' badge and an external link icon. Below this result is a brief description: 'Full-text scholarly articles across a wide variety of disciplines. Also includes reports and conference proceedings. Includes resources from as far back as 1865.'

Using the Guides tab

The Guides tab will take you to the library's list of Research Guides. Here you will find a variety of guides related to Arts & Humanities, Social Science, Education, Law, Research How-to's and much more. Click on a topic related to your research to access that research guide. Research guides provide you with suggestions of relevant books, articles, and websites.

They also have topic specific information. For example, the Business Administration guide has information related to finding trade publications, market & consumer research, and industry ratios.
